

To University of Sydney Academic Promotions Committee

Llew has overseen my work at the Langton Centre as a summer research student in 2019/20. From as early as my first day at the Centre, he has been highly approachable and supportive of my learning. He was always willing to share resources and provide constructive feedback on the numerous drafts I produced.

He demonstrated his commitment to helping me achieve my learning goals on many occasions, but most notably when he arranged for a visit to the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital Library, where I would learn effective search strategies to use in MEDLINE and other Ovid databases.

At no point during my eight-week tenure at the Langton Centre did I feel lost or in the dark, because I knew I could always approach Llew with any questions I had. I feel grateful for his tutelage and mentorship, and I look forward to watching him progress in academia.

Sincerely
